Responsible diving in the Mar de las Calmas Marine Reserve

As a diver I must be 100% responsible, therefore I commit myself to follow the following diving rules:

- Pay special attention to the briefing of the dive guide
- During the dive control and group your equipment for safety and to avoid damages by impact or dragging
- If you find fishing gear or scientific material, never approach or manipulate it
- Be careful with your finning and contacts with the environment. Do not strike, dislodge or lift fauna or substrate, if it happens leave it as it was, pay special attention not to disturb marine life with fins or equipment
- Do not harm living creatures, which includes disturbing, retaining, collecting, fragmenting, splitting, killing, and any other form of harmful action for any purpose
- Do not capture or extract plants, marine organisms or their remains (shells, carapaces, etc.) or archaeological remains
- Do not feed or extract plants, marine organisms or their remains (shells, carapaces, etc.) or archaeological remains
- Avoid and actively fight against pollution of the environment
- Respect other users of the sea.
